Savage Hurricane Cleo Hits Miami, Turns Northward

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Cleo smashed Miami with jagged hammer blows today, left the streets of the city looking like a battleground, then roared in northward up the heavily-populated southeast Florida coast.

Broadcasting towers toppled. Store windows exploded by hundreds, littering streets with merchandise and broken glass. Fallen trees blocked hundreds of streets.

No deaths were reported, but a looter shot by police was in critical condition in a hospital.

County Manager Irving G. McNayr said he would ask to have the city declared a disaster area. There was no estimate of damage to public buildings, but McNayr called it "quite serious."

A veteran policeman who was in Miami when the 1926 hurricane broke the big Florida land boom, said the storm was the worst since then.

Numerous fires broke out and couldn't be fought in the 115-mile an hour fury of the wind. One warehouse was destroyed at a half-million dollar cost. Fires still were breaking out when dawn revealed the raw scars of the hurricane.

Cleo, howling and moaning up from the south, slammed hurricane force winds into Miami at 2:20 a.m. One hour later, power failure plunged the city into darkness.

After crossing Miami, the eye of the hurricane moved on northward across Hallandale, Hollywood, Fort Lauderdale, Boca Raton and West Palm Beach. Hurricane warning flags flew on up the coast to Cape Kennedy and gale warnings were issued as far north as Daytona Beach.

At 10 a.m., winds of 105 miles per hour were hitting West Palm beach.

Local Girl Now Enroute to Liberia

Sherrie Hankins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hankins, Oakhaven, Hope, Ark., has left for Liberia with about 150 other Peace Corps Volunteers. The group will teach in elementary schools and junior and senior high schools throughout the country.

Liberia faces an acute shortage of teachers, and consequently, trained manpower. To upgrade its entire educational system the Liberian government requested and now has over 150 Volunteer teachers. In addition the Peace Corps has sent 40 trained public administrators to work in modernizing government procedures. For the teachers, extra curricular activities compose a key element of their effort to broaden educational horizons for thousands of Liberian youngsters.

The new Volunteers attended an eight week training session at San Francisco State College as preparation for their overseas assignment. Their training emphasized technical studies of teaching methods and educational systems. Additionally they took courses on the history and institutions. English is the language of Liberia but Volunteers were trained in African linguistics. They are expected to learn one of the 28 African languages spoken in Liberia after their arrival.

The departing Volunteers will join 6,000 other Americans now working for the Peace Corps in 46 African, Asian and Latin American nations. Peace Corps officials report that more than 5,000 Volunteers are being trained this summer and fall to meet requests from these countries. Applicants interested in late fall or subsequent training programs should submit their questionnaires now and take the next nationwide Placement Test on September 12.

Says War Is Evil and Ugly But Most of All War Is Boring and Very Wasteful

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—War is evil. War is ugly. War is wrong.

Most of all, however, war is boring and wasteful.

But now and then the long black hours of boredom in war are broken by a bright moment of pure poetry.

Such a moment came 20 years ago this week when French and American troops "liberated" Paris. Actually, Paris itself was not so much liberated as they themselves were freed. To the soldiers, worn from the green hell of Normandy hedgerows, the wide boulevards of "the City of Light" seemed like paths through paradise.

Time gives most of us more midnights than mornings. But to anyone who was in Paris on Aug. 25, 1944, that date remains indelibly engraved in his mind as one of the milestones of his life.

Paris at any time is a delight to the eye of any boy from Elmsville, U.S.A., but on liberation day it was also an utter ecstasy of the spirit.

Everybody was laughing, everybody was young. All the girls were pretty and kissable, and there were no bottoms to the wine bottles.

There was no difference between day and night, and it seemed like the celebrating would go on forever.

Of course, it couldn't—and it didn't. That blinding morning of happiness finally wore out. The people of Paris went back to work, you had to start paying

Labor Selects Chrysler as Strike Target

By GENE SCHROEDER

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers Union has singled out Chrysler Corp. as its No. 1 strike target in efforts to secure new contracts for the nation's half-million auto plant workers.

UAW President Walter Reuther told newsmen Wednesday night that the walkout at Chrysler would begin at 10 a.m. Sept. 9 if no settlement is forthcoming by that time.

Reuther said Chrysler, General Motors and Ford — the auto industry's Big Three — all had adopted a "narrow, selfish attitude" in negotiations and are denying workers their fair share of record-breaking profits.

The union's contracts with all three firms expire Monday, but Reuther said the strike deadline was set beyond Labor Day to allow several extra days at the bargaining table in efforts to avoid a walkout.

Reuther said he expects his campaign in Detroit's Cadillac Square on Labor Day.

Reuther has pointed out that Chrysler is in progress of a strike in progress. President might have found such an appearance before a labor rally to be embarrassing.

Reuther visited President Johnson in the White House Wednesday, but he denied that the President's Labor Day plans had any influence on the decision to set Sept. 9 — two days after the holiday — as the strike date.

Pointing out that Chrysler is the nation's seventh largest corporation, Reuther said the firm was selected because it had what he termed oral obligation, to repay the UAW for 1961 contract concessions.

At that time, he contended, Chrysler was in deep financial trouble and there was a question of whether the company was going to survive.

Chrysler is now the second most profitable company in the auto industry, Reuther said, earning $114.4 million after taxes during the first six months of this year. This, he said, was a 26 per cent return on its investment.

Sweet Victory for Man Who Come Back

By ARTHUR EDSON

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — For Hubert Horatio Humphrey, the man who came back, this was sweet victory indeed.

There he stood Wednesday night, waving, laughing, pointing happily to friends he recognized in the milling crowd below, as thousands cheered in this giant convention hall.

Everything had gone right for Hubert Humphrey at last. Not only had President Johnson finally picked him as his vice presidential running mate, Johnson had made it all the lovelier by performing an unheard-of political chore, coming from Washington to nominate Humphrey in person.

Watching Humphrey in all his glory, it seemed impossible that only four short years ago he looked to be washed up, finished.

But let's go back for a moment, to that rainy night of May 10, 1960, in Charleston, W.Va.

This was the windup of a rough, tough campaign. Sen. John F. Kennedy and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota were the two contestants, and they hit each other with all that they had. No one who took part in or who watched that West Virginia Democratic presidential primary will ever forget it.

All the odds were expected to favor Humphrey.

He was a Protestant running against a Roman Catholic in Protestant country.

He spoke the plain, homey language hill folks could understand.

But the Kennedy resources and the Kennedy political knowledge and the combined energy of the restless Kennedy family changed what looked like certain defeat into spectacular victory.

Humphrey offered his congratulations, and Kennedy, looking as if he were a little embarrassed at so solid a knockout blow, said: "It was very nice of you to come over, Hubert."

But Humphrey isn't one to sulk.

Sen. Pierre Salinger, who was Kennedy's press secretary in West Virginia was on the other side of the primary fence, had only nice things to say about him Wednesday night as he seconded the nomination. Humphrey worked hard in the 1960 fall campaign, Salinger said, and contributed to Kennedy's victory.

So here Humphrey was Wednesday night, so gay, so effervescent, so exuberant, lapping up the applause. And recalling what happened just four years ago, it was easy to see why he loved it.

Military Names Khanh to Run S. Viet Nam

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Diplomatic sources said today military leaders named Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh and two other generals to run South Viet Nam.

The move came amid new riots in which troops reportedly killed three demonstrators.

There was no immediate confirmation from the government of the new triumvirate.

The ruling military junta has been trying for two days to name a chief of government to fill the vacancy left when Khanh stepped down as president and scrapped the constitution in the face of mounting demonstrations from Buddhists and student groups.

Today's casualties were reported when government troops fired on a mob of 2,000 which tried to enter a compound where junta members were meeting to choose a new head of state.

A Roman Catholic group pushed toward the military compound and a Saigon radio station, Buddhist and student groups massed to confront the Catholics at the radio station.

Fulbright in Speech of Nomination

By GORDON BROWN

Associated Press Writer

ATLANTIC CITY (AP) — The Arkansas delegation to the 34th Democratic National Convention lent its voice to the nomination of President Johnson by Acclamation last night but also contributed a seconding speech by Sen. J. William Fulbright.

Fulbright was something of a surprise speaker. He wasn't listed on the final draft of the night's program.

In fact, he wasn't notified of the assignment until about 5 p.m. He then hastened to his hotel room and hurriedly prepared his brief speech.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in his speech that Johnson "has a genius for reconciling the irreconcilable, for resolving differences among men of deep conviction."

While Johnson was Democratic leader of the Senate, Fulbright said, he put the nation's interest above partisan advantage in the belief that "politics stops at the water's edge."

He said the president's approach in foreign affairs has been a positive one. He cited his "positive and clear cut" decisions in the Bay of Tonkin and in Cuban crises.

"I commend Lyndon Johnson to this convention and to all our people as a man of understanding, with the vision to use the great power of our nation in the cause of peace," Fulbright told the convention.

Almost the entire Arkansas delegation was in the hall to join in the proceedings and to participate in the tumultuous welcome to the President, who paid a surprise visit to the convention.

A few of the Arkansas delegates had departed because of business or personal affairs, but remaining delegates emphasized no disunity was involved.

Most of the group planned to stay for the convention windup tonight although some expected to leave early since the important business of the convention ended with the nominations of the Johnson-Hubert Humphrey ticket.

William J. Smith, legal adviser to Gov. Orval E. Faubus, was among those leaving, and he told the Arkansas Democrat in a telephone interview Tuesday that some of the delegates were leaving "in unhappiness."

"This should not be construed as a walkout," Smith said later in an interview with Little Rock Radio Station KAAY.

Smith said some Arkansas delegates were "very unhappy" about events at the convention, but most of the Arkansians stayed at the convention and helped nominate Johnson by Acclamation.

Fred Pickens of Newport said he knew of no unhappiness among the Arkansas delegates.

Smith said five other members of the 52-member Arkansas delegation would leave the convention, arriving home today.

Democrats Acclaim Johnson, Humphrey at Nat'l Convention

Barry Hurls Viet Nam War Into Campaign

By WALTER R. MEARS

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater sought privacy at sea today after thrusting the guerrilla war in South Viet Nam squarely into his campaign against President Johnson.

While the Democratic National Convention nominated Johnson and chose Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota to run with the President, the Republican nominee for the White House cruised the waters off Southern California.

Lolling against the stern rail of a borrowed 83-foot yacht Wednesday, Goldwater:

—Declared he thinks the Johnson administration is trying to negotiate a settlement of the Southeast Asian fighting before Election Day; said that timing would be wrong and added he fears such an agreement would be a giveaway to the Communists.

—Said some form of negotiations with Red China "might be profitable" — when pro-Western forces can deal from a position of strength in Southeast Asia.

—Labeled the U.S.-backed war against Communists in South Viet Nam an issue of major concern to the voters in the presidential race.

Goldwater, striking a theme he raised in Cleveland, Ohio, two days ago, said he expects to hear "most any day" of a negotiated settlement in Viet Nam.

The senator told reporters at the floating news conference in Catalina Island's Avalon harbor his "political bones" tell him word of negotiations can be expected before Election Day.

"I hope it's not a giveaway to the Communists," he said, "I suspect that's what it will be if we have one."

Goldwater said this is not the time for peace talks. "Before any negotiations are begun that involve us directly or indirectly, we must improve our military position," he said. "I don't think the military situation is such that we have much to bargain with."

Goldwater said he read a newspaper report forecasting negotiations for peace in South Viet Nam. He mentioned a Central Intelligence Agency report, saying it also talked of negotiations.

He said that "is the typical pattern" used to prepare the

$87 Millions Worth of Oil Produced

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — About two per cent of Arkansas land produced last year crude oil, natural gas and natural gas liquids worth $87.5 million, the Independent Petroleum Association of America reported Wednesday.

The association's annual report on the industry said 550,000 of Arkansas' 33,500,000 acres were in petroleum production in 1963.

Production is in 19 counties, with 12 per cent of the state's surface in petroleum production or under lease by petroleum companies.

The report said petroleum led stone and bauxite as minerals of principal value in Arkansas, with petroleum worth 55.2 per cent of the value of all other minerals in the state.

In 1921, when Arkansas' petroleum production was first recorded, the state produced 10.4 million barrels. Four years later production had increased to 77.3 million barrels.

Production has declined in recent years, to 89,315 barrels in 81,035 barrels last year.

Arkansas counties that have petroleum production are Miller, Lafayette, Columbia, Union, Nevada, Ouachita, Calhoun, Bradley, Washington, Crawford, Sebastian, Scott, Logan, Franklin, Johnson, Pope, Conway, Cleburne and Van Buren.

Producers sank 207 oil wells in the state last year only seven of them wildcats. There were 43 gas wells drilled, five of them wildcats. The association said nearly half of the wells, 44.1 per cent, were dry holes.

At the end of 1963, there were 5,399 crude oil wells working in Arkansas, the association said, and 541 condensate wells.

Hurricane

At Fort Lauderdale, a 20-by-40 foot sign over a shopping center vanished. Gusts strewn trees across roads and made shore route A-1-a impassable with sand-drifts.

Cleo's powerful winds pushed a railroad freight car eight miles from south of Hollywood to Fort Lauderdale. The runaway car sheared off one side of the old Dania station and then collided with an automobile, seriously injuring the driver, an elderly man.

Officials said the station, a frame structure had been lifted to the edge of the tracks by Cleo.

At Pompano Beach, two persons were trapped at the height of the storm when the wind crumpled their trailer home. Rescuers got them out unharmed.

At Cape Kennedy, six space rockets were lashed down and other preparations made for a big blow at America's spaceport.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Cleo smashed into the rich and thickly populated southeast coast of Florida today, caused heavy damage and plowed a devastating path northward.

The storm, a small but vicious killer, churned across Miami with surprising fury, lashing the city with winds up to 115 miles an hour, torrential rain and damaging tides.

Unofficial estimates placed damage in the millions from the first hurricane to hit Miami in four years, and one of the worst since 1926.

Looters raided damaged shops and stores throughout the city. Numerous injuries — most from flying glass — were reported, but there were no known fatalities. Hospital held staffs overtime to treat the injured.

Miami and Miami Beach, a city of plush homes and swanky resort hotels just across storm-tossed Biscayne Bay, were plunged into darkness by power failures.

Minutes after the hurricane struck, the only electric lights in the normally brilliantly lit cities shone dimly from hospitals and other buildings with auxiliary power.

The eye of the storm, which has left a rising toll of dead in the Caribbean, moved directly over Miami, after indications it would pass out at sea.

Then it swirled slowly on to batter Fort Lauderdale and Palm Beach, famed play place of the wealthy, some 65 miles to the north.

The Weather Bureau said it was expected to continue its northward course at 11 miles an hour through the day, then veer away from the mainland on a northeasterly track tonight.

Hurricane warnings were hoisted all the way to Cape Kennedy, site of most U.S. space launchings, 190 miles north of Miami. Gale warnings extended another 50 miles north to Daytona Beach, and on huge Lake Okechobee in south central Florida.

The Weather Bureau warned tides may reach five to seven feet above normal.

Windows in hundreds of Miami homes and stores were smashed. Fallen power lines started dozens of fires. An 85-foot luxury yacht broke loose from its mooring and drifted helplessly without a crew in crashing waves. Trees were toppled, roofs ripped off.

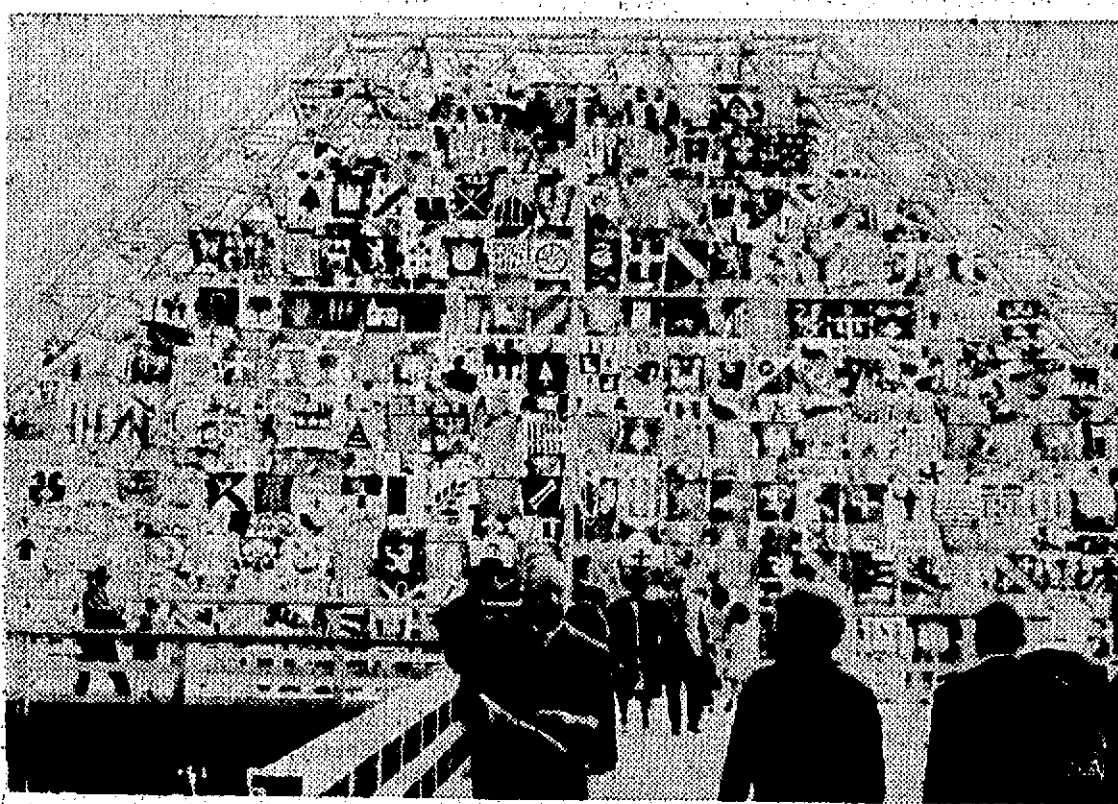

Miami enjoyed a long period of calm while the eye was over the city and police Lt. James Ford said dozens of looters raided the damaged shops and stores, carrying off liquor, clothing, food and other items.

"We've got more than 150 officers out there and we can't catch 'em," he said. "They're in and out before we can get there."

Behind the hurricane lay a swath of death and destruction in the Caribbean, with 14 dead in Guadeloupe, at least 60 in Haiti and the toll expected to rise.

public for an announcement that negotiations have been held.

"I feel from that that we are considering it and we are closer to it than Congress or the public realize," he said.

Goldwater said any future negotiations should involve as little Communist participation as possible.

But he indicated Red China would have to play a part in any settlement negotiations.

"I've thought for some time that a talk like that with the Red Chinese might be profitable," he said.

"But, he added: 'I don't think we can possibly come out of any negotiations now with an honorable type of peace which would be honorable to Viet Nam and honorable to those men of ours who fought and died over there.'"

The enemy should be the one, actually, that should institute negotiations, Goldwater said, "unless through the United Nations you can find interest in both sides."

Through press secretary Paul Wagner he relayed a clarification of his comments on negotiating with the Communist Chinese.

Wagner said Goldwater, on a ship-to-shore phone, declared that was not his suggestion, but one advanced by military men and civilian experts.

These advisors, Wagner quoted Goldwater as saying, recommended that when the South Vietnamese military situation is improved, the United States send word to Red China demanding that nation stop sending supplies that end up in the hands of Communist guerrillas.

If the Chinese do not hold shipments, Wagner said Goldwater told him, the United States could stage a show of strength to underline its intentions.

Goldwater, in red pants and a white polo shirt, said he plans to spend his vacation days fishing, working a portable ham radio set, and preparing the speech with which he will formally launch his campaign at Prescott, Ariz., on Sept. 3.

The senator and his wife plan to stay on the yacht Sundance until Aug. 31.

The demonstrators demanded that the council resist Buddhist and student demands that it step down and pave the way for civilian rule.

Reliable sources said that Lt. Gen. Tran Thien Khiem, former minister of defense; and Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh, former president, were named with Khanh as members of the triumvirate.

An announcement received in Saigon by diplomatic sources said the three would rule until a national congress elects a head of government.

Khanh stepped down Tuesday in the face of widespread student demonstrations. Minh had been figurehead chief of state until 11 days ago when Khanh proclaimed himself president under a new constitution.

Minh was ousted in the shake-up touching off student charges ready to board a plane to Atlantic City. Humphrey, who had flown to Washington at the President's command, was at his side.

Taking the senator by the arm, Johnson walked over to newsmen standing behind a barrier and said: "Meet the next vice president."

The world thus learned of the selection, about three hours before many delegates to this convention knew that it had been made. No modern president had ever kept counsel about a running mate so long.

Johnson, Humphrey and Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., who also had been summoned to the white house from Atlantic City, then boarded a plane. Johnson watched on television while Gov. John F. Connally of Texas placed his name in nomination.

The reason for Dodd's quick trip remained a mystery. The Connecticut senator said he had told the president to "include me out" of consideration for the vice presidential nomination.

Speculation among high party officials was that the Connecticut senator had been offered appointment as Attorney General when Robert F. Kennedy steps out of that office to make the race for the Senate in New York. This might bring National Chairman John M. Bailey into the picture as a possible successor if Dodd accepted the Cabinet post.

Johnson hadn't been scheduled to visit the convention until today. But as soon as his nomination was acclaimed with a tumultuous, banner waving, flag-flying demonstration, he strode to the platform.

It's been more than a year since Cambridge was caught up in the first wave of what has since been called the Negro revolution.

tride serenity.

Charles Cornish, the Negro president of the five-man City Council, says it's because of the passage of the Civil Rights Act.

The city attorney, C. Awdry Thompson, says, "It's up to the national civil rights leaders; if they want something to happen, it will happen. If they don't it won't."

Another explanation given is the prolonged absence of Mrs. Gloria Richardson, who led the turbulent civil rights struggle here and who, more than anyone else, is held responsible by the whites, for the earlier crisis.

Mrs. T. N. Booth, Mrs. Richardson's mother, says her daughter is in Newark, N.J.

A civil rights law, as Cornish points out, has been enacted, and it forbids racial discrimination in most restaurants.

Open accommodations was a prime target of Negroes a year ago. And yet local Negroes are taking no advantage of the law's provisions now.

In the first days after the bill's enactment there were tests by civil rights workers,

Don't Put Off Filing SS Claim

A severely handicapped worker who puts off making his claim for social security payments risks losing all or part of the social security payments that may be due him. This is and with the exception of a restaurant whose owner said his income was derived largely from beer sales, the Negroes were served without fail.

But white restaurant owners say they have had no Negro trade since. They point to this in support of their contention that the racial crisis here was brought on by "outside agitators."

Stanley Wise, a lieutenant in Mrs. Richardson's Cambridge Nonviolent Action Committee, says only "we're concentrating on schools and jobs now."

In a county designated as an economically distressed area, Negroes have been especially hard hit. The unemployment rate among Negroes has been twice that of whites.

Two job retraining programs have been started in the past year, one under the Area Redevelopment Administration, the other under the Manpower Development Training Act.

The third major Negro grievance was school segregation — in the case of Dorchester County, the five lower grades remained segregated after seven years of one-grade-a-year integration.

Last fall the School Board dropped the barriers in the last five grades, but retained its policy of requiring parents to request in writing the transfer of their children to another school.

Now leaderless, Cambridge Negroes seem much as they did before it all began.

A white official predicts, "if you come back five years from now, it'll be the same as it was five years ago."

the information given today by Otis A. Blackwood, social security district manager in Texarkana.

Disability payments under the program may be made retroactive for a maximum of 12 months before the month a claim is filed, said Mr. Blackwood. He went on to say that no disability payments are made for the first 6 months a worker is disabled.

To get disability payments, a worker must meet a special disability work requirement of the social security law. This requirement is that the worker have 5 years of work under social security in the 10-year period before he is disabled. A claim for benefits must be made soon after the disability begins.

In some instances, Mr. Blackwood said, a worker who delays his claim more than 18 months after he is disabled could lose out completely on disability payments. Any worker who is too disabled to work and whose condition is not obviously temporary should get in touch with the office at Texarkana without delay. Only be doing so can the worker be sure he will not lose social security payments which are rightfully his.

Parents should be careful in encouraging their children to do well in school. The child who cannot live up to expectations may develop a feeling of inferiority, or may cheat.

State Group Hits on the Hairpin Turn
By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Frowning over their form sheets like Lyndon B. Johnson trying to pick a vice president, the ladies of the Democratic National Convention spent a day at the races.
"I can't remember whether my husband told me to put two dollars on No. 8 in the fourth race or four dollars on No. 3 in the eighth race," mused a lady from Utah in a big L.B.J. hat. She compromised by putting five dollars on No. 7, Champion Lady, in the third race.
The big brown filly cut out from the field in the back stretch, just beyond where a sign on the infield grass said "Welcome Democrats," and romped on home. She could have made it the rest of the way in snow shoes, and the lady from Utah pocketed $18.75.
It went pretty much like that the rest of the afternoon.
The ladies at the convention had a choice between attending the races and touring a china factory famous for making the White House dinnerware for Presidents Wilson, Truman and Franklin Roosevelt. Twice as many ladies showed up to inspect the two-dollar platters running at the Atlantic City course as turned out to view the presidential crockery.
"I bet one dollar at Monte Carlo last year and one dollar at Las Vegas and here I'm in for two dollars already," exclaimed Alice Narducci of Lambertville, N.J.
The Arkansas delegation hit it big early as a result of one of those hairpin turns of feminine logic that leave veteran horse players talking to themselves long after the lights have gone

Wedding Vows Are Repeated

Mrs. David Norman Moore

The wedding of Miss Winona Lynn Coleman to David Norman Moore was solemnized at 4:30 p.m. on August 23 1964 in the First Presbyterian Church of Arkadelphia. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Norman Moore of Hope Arkansas.

The Reverend T. Chalmers Henderson officiated at the double-ring ceremony before a background of white lighted tapers in seven branched candelabra and baskets of white ruffled gladioli. Miss Mae Whipple provided the music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white peau de soie with a fitted bodice and long fitted sleeves tapering to lily points over the wrists. The round neckline was fashioned with imported Swiss lace. The front of the skirt was straight, accented with soft pleats and a small bow on each side. A full bustle back fell into a chapel train. Her veil of imported French illusion was attached to a crown of fabric and seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white Fuji mums and white cushioned chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Wilburn Powell, sister of the bride was matron of honor. Junior bridesmaid was Miss Rebecca Boyce, Bedford, Texas, cousin of the bride. Bridesmaids were Miss Susan Boyce Bedford, Texas, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Kenneth Gilliam, Hope sister of the groom. The attendants wore identical street-length dresses of emerald green peau de soie with matching jackets opening in back to reveal covered buttons and loops. The accessories were of the same color. They carried bouquets of Fuji mums.

Mr. Moore served his son as best man. Groomsmen were: Louis Anderson Shreveport La. Dickey Finley Texarkana Ark.; and Tuney Bailey Pine Bluff. Ushers were Johnny Turner Hope; Bob Arnold Arkadelphia; and Mike Knickerbocker Greenville Miss.

A reception was held in Fellowship Hall immediately following the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with a cloth of white silk organza and draped with white chiffon accented with small wedding bells. The centerpiece was white chrysanthemums. A white four-tiered wedding cake was served. Assisting were Mrs. C. M. Strack Miss Kathy Auberry Mrs. Jimmy Lemons Mrs. David Juyper Miss Judy Alexander and Miss Dodie Reid. Miss Judy Jones kept the guest book.
For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Coleman wore a sheath dress of bone and green lace with matching accessories. The groom's mother wore a dress of beige lace with matching accessories. Both had corsages of gardenias.
For the wedding trip, the bride chose a two-piece brown and green plaid cotton dress. She wore brown accessories.
After the wedding trip the couple will be at home in Arkadelphia.

out on the tote board.
Inez Jones, a delegate and the wife of the estate auditor didn't like Lady Optimist in the first race, but Louise Porter, a delegate and president of the Arkansas Democratic Women's Club, did, because she regards herself as a lady optimist. So Mrs. Jones bought a ticket on Lady Optimist for Mrs. Porter because it was Mrs. Porter's birthday. Get it?
Mrs. Porter did anyway.

attacks on U.S. naval vessels and the release of information on his personal fortune.
At this moment the great unknown of the campaign is how far Johnson will go in slugging it out personally with Goldwater. He may try to stay aloof while letting those around him go after Goldwater with their long knives.

It looks like a good bet, judging from what's happened already, that Johnson will do his share of personally trying to scotch the Arizona.
One good example: His reaction when Goldwater seemed to imply Johnson had given his naval commanders a blank check to use nuclear weapons against North Viet Nam if they thought that appropriate.
Johnson called this "unjustified and irresponsible." Still, this was a reaction to an attack on him by Goldwater who so far has been far more aggressive in commenting on his rival.
The fact that Johnson could be so irritated by Goldwater that he'd reply with a personal attack — the "irresponsible" charge — is a good indication it can happen again and probably will.

Hard Battle Politically Is Assured

By JAMES MARLOW AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON AP — It's not so much what's happened as what hasn't happened that's kept political interest bubbling between the Republicans' convention in July and next week's Democratic convention in Atlantic City.

What hasn't happened has been answers to questions like these which have taken up a lot of newspaper space:
Will Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy run for the Senate from New York where he is not a resident? Who's President Johnson's choice for his vice presidential running-mate? Will Johnson and Sen. Barry Goldwater ever debate?
These uncertainties shouldn't last long since Johnson will have to give an answer on debating, Kennedy will have to announce his decision soon and Johnson's running-mate will be named before the convention ends.

But while Johnson and Goldwater have butted heads in these past five weeks neither man has quickened pulses with the brilliance of his political utterances.

In this campaign there may be some brilliant political maneuvering but hardly brilliant statements since neither Johnson nor Goldwater is polished in phrase or delivery.

There's a good explanation for the small excitement so far. Both men have had to us these weeks preparing for the campaign which starts rolling in September.

Beside their organizational problems, Goldwater had to spend time trying to restore unity to the Republican party while Johnson had a lot to keep busy with in Congress. His record there will be a big campaign item.

Nevertheless, it's the way the two men have butted heads which foreshadows if not a sparkling campaign, at least a rough-house one.

Goldwater and his team have left little doubt they will go after Johnson with bare fists although up to now they have done it in a scattered and limited rather than in a persistent and concentrated way.

Their sharpest attacks have actually been reactions to something Johnson did, like his handling of the North Vietnamese along with $19.20.

Dedicated Democrats all, the ladies spent almost as much time handicapping the vice-presidential field as they did the resident out burners. They thought Hubert Humphrey showed early foot while his stablemate Eugene McCarthy was galled for the long pull, but they feared that Rhode Island's Sen. John Pastore may have emerged as the dark horse to jeopardize Minnesota's double entry on the basis of his early convention workout.

And without consulting the Owl, Riley, Turfaster and the other local touts the lady prognosticators did rule out such long shots as California's Pat Brown and Connecticut's Tom Dodd.
"It'll be a horse race, you can be sure of that," opined Louise Campolo of Roselle Park, N.J.

President Is Healthy, Doctor Says

By LEE GARRETT

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Johnson, 56 years old today, has his party's overwhelming endorsement for another term in office and his doctors' assurance he is physically fit for "an active vigorous life."

For a birthday party, he was assured a rousing reception from the Democratic National Convention in Atlantic City, where he goes tonight to accept formally the full-term nomination handed him without contest Wednesday night.

The verdict of four doctors on his physical condition as disclosed by the President Wednesday as he led newsmen on a 4 1/2-mile hike, talking as he circled 15 laps around the back driveway of the White House.

Loping easily along in the high-humidity heat Johnson convinced less-athletic newsmen of the doctors' finding that his "exercise tolerance continues to be superb" despite a serious heart attack in 1955.

He took a few more fast laps later with his choice for a running mate, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota; took time out for an informal birthday party at which his staff presented him with a desk; and capped an active day with a flight to the convention city which lasted into the early morning hours.

Back To School Banquet

Nelson Hill Post No. 427 and the Junior and Senior Auxiliary held a "Back To School" banquet Monday evening in the dining hall of the Pentecostal Temple Church of God in Christ, Elder O. N. Dennis, pastor. There were approximately seventy persons in attendance. The program was presented in three fifteen-minute segments.

Miss Delois Lloyd, Lt. Governor of Girls State served as Mistress of Ceremonies for the Junior Auxiliary. The speaker, Miss Linda Ann Pondexter, Governor of Girls State, spoke on the "Purpose of Girls State."

She was at her best as she led the audience with her persuasive voice in viewing the purposes.

Part 2, with Auxiliary President Laura Logan as M.C., was equally interesting as the audience was swayed into dynamic thinking as they followed the speaker Dr. Electa C. Wiley, as she spoke on the subject, "Enlightenment of the Individual For the Great Need of the Time!" She emphasized five points: 1. Literacy; 2. Constructive Change; 3. Respect; 4. Paradox of toughness, tenderness; 5. Learning how to learn and delight in learning.

Part 3, with Legionnaire Vandevoort as M.C., was no less interesting as we listened intently to the speaker for the Post, Professor T. J. Lowe, as he spoke on the subject, the World At Work. He stressed the need for "Back To School" in this day and time to prepare for work in a changing world. He stated that the jobs are moving up; there are no more ditch-digging jobs, so we must prepare to move up with the jobs by going back to school; get in the adult education classes.

Part 4 was the summarization: Part 1, Miss Winnie Bell McKillion, a senior at Bishop College; Part 2, W. V. Rutherford, Principal of Yerger High School and Part 3, Rev. Walter White, pastor of Lonoke Baptist Church.

Indians Edge Orioles; Yanks Are Defeated

By MURRAY CHASS

Associated Press Sports Writer
The Baltimore Orioles were lucky if they can get out of the Cleveland Indians' eighth inning with the American League pennant.

The Indians edged the first-place Orioles 3-2 Wednesday night, scoring two runs in the eighth inning for the victory. The loss, coupled with Chicago's 2-1, 11-inning triumph over Minnesota, sliced Baltimore's lead to one percentage point over the second-place White Sox.

The victory, the Indians' sixth straight, increased their season edge over Baltimore to 10-5, making them the only team to hold an edge over the league leaders. More specifically, though, the Indians have won five of the last six games with Baltimore in the eighth inning.

A five-run outburst in the eighth Tuesday night brought Cleveland a 5-3 decision. Wednesday night's game was tied 1-1 going into the eighth.

Slow-footed John Romano sent the tie-breaking run across with a two-out, two-strike bunt single, a surprise move he pulled on his own. Vic Davalillo followed with a run-scoring double.

Explaining the rare squeeze bunt, Romano said: "I can't hit (relief pitcher Stu) Miller anyway, so I had to do something."

Baltimore Manager Hank Bauer, however, didn't have any explanation for the Indians' eighth-inning tactics.

Elsewhere in the AL, Washington blanked New York 2-0, Detroit defeated Boston 4-1 and Los Angeles knocked off Kansas City 5-2.

In the National League, Philadelphia ripped Milwaukee 6-1, New York defeated Cincinnati 3-1, Los Angeles nipped San Francisco 2-1, St. Louis trimmed Pittsburgh 4-2 and Chicago beat Houston 3-1.

Norm Siebern slammed a homer for the Orioles in the eighth, but they couldn't do any more scoring. A walk and singles by Earl Robinson and Russ Snyder had given Baltimore a 1-1 tie in the sixth and set the stage for the eighth-inning rally.

Don Buford singled home Gerry McNertney with Chicago's winning run in the 12th. McNertney led off the inning by reaching second base on a wild throw to first by the Twins' Rich Rollins. McNertney went to third on a passed ball and two walks later, trotted home.

Ed Fisher pitched the last three innings, holding the Twins hitless for his sixth victory in eight decisions.

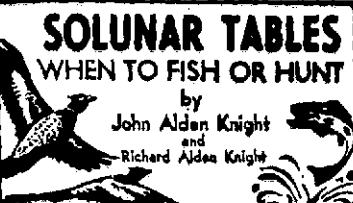

The Yankees remained four games off the pace as Buster Narum stopped them on five hits. He outpitched Mel Stottlemyre, who lost his first game after winning three. The Senators scored both runs in the fifth, Mike Brunley coming home with the first one on an infield grounder.

The Tigers' Dave Wickersham recorded his 16th victory in 25 decisions, hurling a five-hitter against the Red Sox. Don Demeter started a two-run rally in the sixth with a homer while Jerry Lumpe did the same in the seventh. Demeter's homer halted Bob Heffner's scoreless-inning string at 19-1-3.

Dick Green and Rocky Colavito clouted solo homers for the Athletics, but they weren't enough to offset the Angels' attack. Los Angeles scored three times in the fourth, the runs coming home on singles by Lou Clinton and Jim Perry and Bob Rodgers' sacrifice fly.

Boxing Is Close to Elimination

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Boxing is close to elimination as a major sports activity, Commissioner Abe J. Greene told the World Boxing Association convention today and urged that "we put it back on the sports pages in decency and take it out of the front page headlines of despair."

Greene said boxing had been a major factor in the development of television but now the last nationally shown boxing series is about to suspend while television time for other sport is on the increase.

He pointed out that the other sports controlled television but that "boxing gives itself away, a pure undiluted patsy."

He said that the first step in the rehabilitation of the sport was to forget personal and interstate rivalries and to think in terms of the sport as a whole.

Incentive of Pro Golf Tour Is Dulled

By WILL GRIMSLEY

Associated Press Sports Writer
BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — High finance on the pro tour has dulled the incentive of many golfers and turned them into parasites, Ben Hogan said today.

"It's not a matter of the big purses but the way the money is distributed," the four-time National Open winner said.

"A fellow doesn't have to work on his game any more. All he has to do is show up for a tournament. He can finish far down the list, pick up a pretty good paycheck and make a comfortable living on the efforts of others."

"The money distribution system is all wrong. The big money should go to the leaders, the fellows such as Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Ken Venturi who are out there always struggling to improve their game."

The couldn't-care-less fellows should get little or nothing," Hogan, now 52 and returning to the Oakland Hills scene where he won the third of his Opens 13 years ago, failed to specify a particular tournament but he virtually drew a map of the $200,000 Carlin World Championship, beginning here today.

The sport's richest event has a prize list scaled down from $35,000 for first and $17,000 for second to $1,000-and-over for 36 places. Each of the 155 players teeing off, 48 of them from 13 foreign nations, is assured $400.

All the nameplayers of the world are entered here, with Nicklaus bidding to nail down his position as the year's leading money winner ($99,000-plus) and Palmer, No. 2, and British Open champion Tony Lema, No. 3, in a position to take over through a victory.

Venturi, the National Open champion, is playing so superbly and with such confidence he has been made the No. 1 favorite.

New Orleans Comes Back in Jr. Play

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — New Orleans pounded 11 hits for a 14-4 victory over Manchester, N.H., and Detroit squeezed by Staten Island, N.Y., in the losers bracket of the American Legion Baseball Junior World Series here Wednesday.

Charlotte, N.C., plays Upland, Calif., and Waterloo, Iowa, meets Lewiston, Idaho, in the unbeaten bracket today.

George Ditta struck out 11 Manchester batters and gave up 11 scattered hits, including a pair of doubles to Darrell Buck and Angelo Manni.

But Ronnie Scott and John Arthers each doubled twice for New Orleans, and Vic Bonafie, Terry Hebert, Ronnie White and Bob Brubacher each got two hits for the winners.

Joe Glassmacher's single scored Larry Miraldi for Staten Island in the first inning, but Detroit evened it in the sixth when Sam Lamerato, who had singled, scored from third on a sacrifice fly.

Mike Jamula singled for two Detroit runs in the ninth. Three straight singles got Staten Island a run in the last of the ninth.

Umpire Saved Hank From Banishment

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Sports Writer
BALTIMORE (AP) — But for the interjection of a veteran umpire, Baltimore's Hank Bauer, a top candidate for Manager of the Year honors, might be on the outside looking in today. He came perilously close to facing a lengthy banishment.

The incident took place May 22 in Baltimore's Memorial Stadium during a game between the Orioles and Minnesota Twins.

Bauer became embroiled in a heated argument with plate umpire Al Salerno over a bean-ball incident.

"It was a case of two hot-heads getting together," Bauer recalled. "I blew my top and called him every name I could think of. If Hank Soar, the senior umpire, hadn't stepped in, I'm sure I would have hit Salerno and probably been suspended for the rest of the year. The next day I thanked Soar."

The gravel-voiced Bauer looks every inch the Marine sergeant he was during World War II but despite his reputation for toughness, he is a gentle, easy-to-approach fellow. He's only been ejected twice this year, both times by Salerno.

"As a rule, I don't argue much with umpires," said the 42-year-old Bauer. "I never gave them any trouble as a player. But a manager has to protect his players. Otherwise he might as well remain in the clubhouse."

Bauer was once described as having a face that resembles a clenched fist. He smiles when he's reminded of it.

"I know I've got that reputation," he said, "but really I'm a nice guy. When I took this job, I was told, 'Be tough, be mean. These guys need discipline.'"

"Actually I haven't had to be mean or tough. I've had no trouble all year. They've been real good. They've been hustling from the first day."

Bauer makes no pretensions about being a masterminding genius.

"I believe in letting the players play the game," he said. "I think the worst thing in the world is over-managing. I believe in delegating authority to the coaches. Even to some players. For example, Luis Aparicio has a free hand in the infield."

"I think the most important thing in managing is getting the respect of the players. Second is handling your pitching staff. As for the other things, everybody plays percentage. You gamble when you're ahead."

Like all managers, Bauer hates to lose, but he rarely takes the game home with him.

"I've never second guessed myself on any move I've ever made," he said. "Everything I do, no matter how it turns out, I have a re-reason for."

"Sure I get keyed up in a game and I need some time to relax after a game. Sometimes it's tough to fall asleep. But I don't go into tantrums after a tough loss."

"I may fret some time but I never let on to the players. They take their cue from the manager. A relaxed team is a better team."

Eagles Happy About Giant Lineman

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

Associated Press Sports Writer
CHERRY HILL, N.J. (AP) — Bob Brown is a rich young man of 22, who stands 6 feet, 4½ inches, weighs 280 pounds, is working for his masters degree and wants to be an administrator in education someday.

At the moment he's using his tremendous physical stature as an offensive tackle for the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League.

Eagles' Coach Joe Kuharich describes his giant lineman as the kind of a rookie a club gets "once every 10 years."

"He has the physical attributes, the brains and the attitude to make it big," says the coach.

The well-spoken Cleveland native has ideas as big as his size. A dedicated athlete, he is concerned not so much with making the team, but with eventually attaining all-star status in the NFL.

The Eagles from Kuharich on down feel Brown is not setting his sights too high. The club showed its confidence in the Nebraska All-American when it drafted him No. 1, and then gave him a reported $100,000 deal to choose the NFL over the American Football League.

Brown does a lot of weight lifting, but curiously enough, not for physical development but mental conditioning.

"I find that lifting 100-pound weights gives me a psychological lift," he explained. "When I face a big lineman I say to myself, 'If I can lift a 100-pound

Giants Licked, Dark Has Some Player Trouble

The San Francisco Giants have to be in trouble when Juan Marichal threatens to strike and Willie Mays starts moonlighting.

Mays tried to hold down two jobs for the Giants Wednesday night, shuttling between center field and third base in a 2-1 loss to the Los Angeles Dodgers that dropped San Francisco 7½ games behind National League-leading Philadelphia.

But the big labor dispute revolved around Marichal, the ace right-hander of the Giants' staff who hoisted his placard and said he won't pitch before he feels he's ready.

"I don't want to take any chances any more," said Marichal, who has been bothered by a bad back, but made his first start since July 29 against the Dodgers Tuesday night. Marichal, who pitched five innings, said he didn't think he was ready to go, then added:

"They wanted me to pitch. I'll tell you this: If it's still the same the next time, I won't pitch."

Manager Al Dark's comment was concise:

"He'll pitch Sunday."

Where Mays will play is another question.

He started in center field against the Dodgers, but had to take over at third base in the second inning after Jim Ray Hart was struck in the head by a thrown ball while running from first base to second and was forced to leave the game.

Mays, who also has played first for the Giants this season, moved back to center field in the seventh inning, then returned to the infield again in the ninth as Dark constantly juggled his line-up in an attempt to get the Giants moving against Don Drysdale.

Drysdale, however, checked San Francisco on seven hits and came up the winner on Doug Camilli's run-producing single in the ninth.

The Phillies, meanwhile, rode Chris Short's six-hit pitching to a 6-1 victory over Milwaukee and built their bulge over second-place Cincinnati to seven games. The Reds were beaten by the New York Mets and Tracy Stallard's five-hit pitching, 3-1.

Elsewhere, Larry Jackson posted his 16th victory for St. Louis with a six-hit, 3-1 triumph over Houston and rookie Mike Cuellar posted the first complete game of his major league career in St. Louis' 4-2 victory over Pittsburgh.

The Chicago White Sox closed to within one percentage point of American League-leading Baltimore by edging Minnesota 2-1 in 12 innings while the Orioles lost to Cleveland 3-2. Washington blanked the New York Yankees 2-0, Detroit whipped Boston 4-1 and the Los Angeles Angels downed Kansas City 5-2.

The Dodgers won it in the ninth for Drysdale on a single by Frank Howard, a ground out and an intentional walk to Nate Oliver that brought up Camilli. Camilli glopped a single to center giving Drysdale a 14-13 record while tagging Bob Hendley with the loss.

Short, bringing his record to 14-6 while lowering his earned run average to 1.70, snapped the Phillies out of their first two-game losing streak since July 26 with the support of four homers — two by Gus Triandos and one each by Ruben Amaro and Tony Gonzalez. Short was touched for a run in the ninth on a double by Joe Torre and Denny Menke's single.

Stallard, now 8-16, checked the Reds on four singles until Don Pavletich ruined his shutout bid with a seventh-inning homer. Ed Kranepool drove in two of the Mets runs off Joey Jay, 9-9, with a fourth-inning single and a sixth-inning sacrifice fly. Ron Hunt drove in the final run with a seventh-inning single.

Jackson, 16-10, kept the Colts from becoming the first NL team this season to win seven straight, losing his shutout on Nellie Fox' run-producing single in the sixth. Jackson received home run support from Ernie Banks,

Layman Is Confused at Convention

By JIM BECKER

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The layman is often confused by the terms used at a political convention.

Actually, they all are quite simple when you understand them. Here are some of the terms heard frequently this week around the Democratic convention and their simple explanations:

Delegate — a member for a of 132 people who come to the convention to cast 12 votes. Included are all persons in the state who contributed more than $1,000 to the party in the last year, and all persons in the state who know what happened to the contributions. There are also three men who are able to breathe in smoke-filled rooms.

Delegate — A member of a delegation. Each delegate casts about 1-16th of a vote — less in some states — whenever he is asked, which is seldom.

Caucus — A meeting of a delegation called to cast votes and decide important questions. All members of the delegations attend except the officers, who are busy at a meeting of party leaders casting votes and deciding important questions.

Informal caucus — Same thing, only drinks are served.

Starting time — A mythical figure selected at random from a spilled type case at the print shop. It is listed in the official program, but bears no relation to the time the program actually starts.

Prime time — The hours on the television schedule between the kiddie cartoons and the late show, during which the commercials are played more often and cost more.

Platform — "War and Peace," with the exciting parts left out.

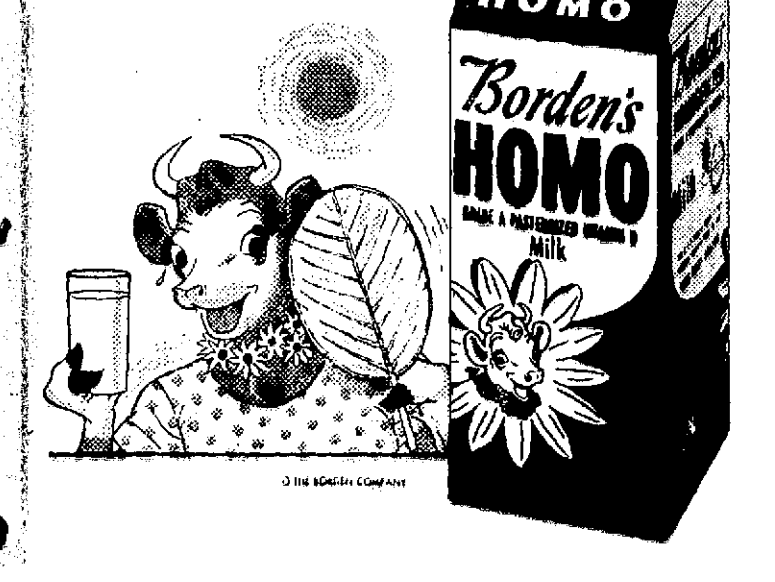

Favorite son candidate — A fellow, usually a senator or a governor, who is booted for office by his neighbors who want every one to know that they are willing to part with him anyway.

Distinguished — The adjective used for every man ever elected to any job which salary is paid by the taxpayer. Includes those who ran unopposed.

PARTY TIPS FOR 'TEENS'

Dance bash tonight! The gang's coming over to try out the latest steps — and with intricate new dances like "The Frug," "The Pony" and "The Soup", you can bet lots of practice will be needed right on the spot.

COOLING-OFF TIME between practice dances demands imaginative refreshments. Smart and tasty choices are bubbly bright new soup drinks made from beef broth with soda or V-8 juice. These drinks, non-alcoholic counterparts of cocktails, are catching on fast with the "teen set." They're high in energy and low in the calorie department. Bite-size snacks, like tiny cherry tomatoes stuffed with a sardine filling and some cheese dips, complement the drinks and go easy on teen-age allowances.

To be sure the evening is good fun all the way through (no broken dinnerware during refreshments!) and to limit those clean-up chores to a wee minimum, serve your favorite snacks on gay "party-proof" melamine plates. The patterns are pretty and colorful, like this perky floral design; the plates are lightweight and very durable; and they're dishwasher proof, too!

You can start the fun rolling with the quick-and-easy "Soup Fizz" shown here. Make it this way:

- Soup Fizz
- 1 can (10 1/2 oz.) condensed tomato soup
 - 1/2 cup can water
 - 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 - 1 bottle (7 oz.) chilled lemon-lime soda
 - Lemon peel
- Combine soup, water and lemon juice. Stir to blend. Add soda just before serving. Pour over cracked ice in glasses. Garnish with twist of lemon peel. Serve in glass mugs, small highball glasses or tumblers. Makes 3 to 4 servings.
- For a beverage variation, here's another delicious quickie:
- Red Cow
- 1 can (10 1/2 oz.) condensed beef broth
 - 1 can (12 oz.) V-8 juice
- Combine broth and juice. Serve over cracked ice, in cocktail glasses or stemmed wine glasses. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

BRAVO BRAND By Nelson C. Nye

THE STORY: Frank Ives has become involved with rustlers who threaten to shoot first and question later. However, the execution is delayed and Frank accompanies the rustlers as avir-tual prisoner.

Ives' mind slipped briefly back to the girl; then, nagged by more pressing problems, returned to consider his present situation.

He was not greatly worried by what they'd learn of him in town; it wasn't very likely they'd get onto the girl.

As a drifting smokeroo or man on the dodge it seemed entirely in the cards the kid, remembering his words back yonder would offer him a job.

A job with Jupe—if this was indeed young Cotten—might be considerably less comfortable than one with Jerre French; but it would give him local status, and, everything considered, might prove to fit in better with his own unsettled plans.

After the way they'd parted Ives wasn't sure French would take him on, and he'd be watching no matter who he hired out to. And he was being watched now—he had that prickly feeling between his shoulders.

It put no change on his wind-ruffled face, nor did it disturb the enigmatic, faintly wistful gravity of his thoughtful expression. The herd, crossing a road, ran beside it for a time, but the run seemed to be pretty well whipped out of it.

The greener hue of the range bleached again into amber, the grade climbed more sharply.

Against the brightening east Ives glimpsed in a swirl of down-craft that briefly spon the dust aside a dark stand of oak. From this scrubby growth—even as he stared—muzzle flame lashed in a racket of rifles.

Two steers went down; another, bellowing, charged from the herd straight across Ives' path, wicked horns narrowly missing his squealing mount. A rider back of him yelled in a pain-clawed voice whose soprano lift, slicing through Ives' astonishment, caused him to whirl the rearing gelding about.

The hurt one looked no bigger than a boy, a pretty puny boy at that. Ives noticed, letting go of tied reins as his horse, barreling in, raced with flattening ears to close the distance. In the stirrups, leaning outward, Ives caught the swaying youngster, hauling him from the saddle as the panicked roan, head down, began to pitch.

Jupe Cotten and three others, spurring out of the dust, flung past, their rifles blazing, in a rush for the brush as Ives, hanging onto his burden, knelt his horse toward the drag, felt him flinch, and jumped clear.

They went down hard, Ives doing his best to cushion the fall, hearing the youngster gasp as they rolled, embarrassingly aware even before he saw that mane of spilled hair that this boy was a girl—a might angry one, too.

"Sorry," he grunted, and

Few Recall Montgomery Bus Incident

By A.F. MAHAN

DETROIT (AP) — In the rash of headlines over passage of the Civil Rights Act, over deaths in Mississippi and riots in Harlem, over sit-ins and stall-ins and the white backlash, perhaps few people today, white or Negro, remember a December evening on a Montgomery bus.

And yet the American Negro may have traveled farther and faster that night in Alabama than he did on the long road up from slavery or on the short dramatic march down Pennsylvania and Constitution Avenues in Washington, D.C., last summer.

Even today, nine years later, the details of that evening are so lacking in drama and emotion content as to seem hardly the stuff of which history is made.

It was shortly after 5:30 p.m. and getting dark when seamstress Rosa Parks put aside a pile of new suits waiting alterations at her work bench in the Montgomery Fair department store and walked a weary half-block to the bus stop on Court Square.

She boarded the bus and took a seat about halfway down in the first seat behind the forward section reserved for white people. As was the prevailing custom and law at the time, Negroes yielded their seats and moved progressively toward the rear as more seats were needed to accommodate white patrons.

Rosa Parks paid no attention that particular evening to the other passengers. The white section wasn't full yet and her thoughts were of home, 15 minutes away, where her husband, Raymond, a barber, was busy getting together dinner.

The first stop brought an influx of passengers who dutifully sorted themselves out in the bus, the Negroes crowding into the cluster of standees at the rear and the whites filling in the last seats in the section marked reserved for them.

Rosa Parks' thoughts were still miles from that crowded and snarling like a wet-footed cat. "Stay clear!"

"Well..." he said discovering the spreading stain beneath her arm.

"Don't you dare put a hand on me!" she cried at him, outraged.

Jupe came up with two others and the sawed-off hombre Ives had heard him call Alex, took in the scene and narrowed his eyes at the girl's blooded jumper. "How bad you hit?"

"I can take care of it," she said glaring at Ives.

Jupe eyed her a moment. "Then, grunting, swung down and passed her his reins. "All right," he growled, "you hit fer camp," and turned to face Ives as the girl, with some difficulty, mounted and rode off.

They were all watching Ives. "What's with you an' her?" Jupe said. "An' don't think up no lies if you value your health."

bus aisle when a white man came aboard at the next stop and stood behind the driver. The next thing she can remember is the heavy-set driver twisting around and addressing her and the other three Negroes in the first seats of the colored section: "Let me have those front seats."

For a moment, no one moved. Maybe, like her, the others weren't listening too attentively.

"You better make it light on yourselves and get up," the driver advised.

Then two Negroes across the aisle retreated to the rear, and the Negro at the window seat next to Rosa Parks stood up and she let him go by.

Even today, Mrs. Parks doesn't know exactly why she didn't move, why she kept her seat and set off the Montgomery bus strike that, in reality, launched the activist civil rights movement.

"I simply didn't think I should have to get up and stand in the back after I was there already," she said. She recalled the incident with a lingering trace of awe, as if it had happened to someone else. "It was one of those things that grow on you. They were killing people and burning churches, same as now."

A slender woman with grey-flecked hair, Mrs. Parks lives in Detroit now, many miles away from Montgomery, Ala., but not so many days distant from that Dec. 1, 1955, evening when she refused to move to the back of the bus.

From her defiant stand sprung the Montgomery bus boycott, the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.'s famed "walk to freedom" and a whole series of non-violent demonstrations that swept northward and westward across the nation.

Two years after that incident on the Montgomery bus, Mrs. Parks moved to Detroit to be with her mother, Leona McCauley, and her brother, who works in an automobile factory. The decision, she said, had nothing to do with the Montgomery boycott. Soon after she arrived, her husband found a job as a barber. She did sewing and alteration work at home for a time, but recently found a dressmaking job in a small factory.

"I don't feel a great deal of difference here, personally," she said in an interview. "Housing segregation is just as bad, and it seems more noticeable in the large cities. There is so much gradualism, I'm in favor of any move to show that we are dissatisfied and still haven't received our rights as citizens."

Mrs. Parks, 51, has not given up the fight. She is vice president of her block club, which is dedicated to cultural and neighborhood improvements and planning a youth program that includes recreation and job guidance.

Pitching Paragon

Walter Johnson, the famous baseball pitcher, won more games, struck out more batters, pitched more innings and compiled more shutouts than any other baseball hurler of the 20th Century, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Remarkable Vision

The whirligig beetle has only one pair of eyes, but can see both above and below. Each eye is separated into two parts by the side margin of the head and one pair watches for enemies above the surface of the water, while the other watches for danger from below.

The U.S. Supreme Court, in 1893, classified the tomato as a vegetable because of its common use in the main part of a meal.

Looking back now, at that December evening in the bus and her subsequent arrest, on how the Negro ministers rallied behind Dr. King and rallied the Negro community with thousands of pamphlets, on how the majority of Montgomery's Negroes walked to work for 831 days until the bus segregation system, collapsed. On the $10 fine and court costs that she never paid, Rosa Parks had no regret whatsoever.

"It brought change," she said, "and any change is better than none at all."

GRILLED BEEF SANDWICH IS BIG TIME FAVORITE

The end of a busy summer comes quickly and with it a resumption of scheduled meetings and meals. Gone are the leisurely patio suppers cooked over a glowing grill.

Meals now are planned with more thought to satisfy sharper appetites. During cooler days, oven roast beef is apt to appear more frequently on the dinner table. Leftovers are never wasted, especially if served as a hot roast beef sandwich.

This budget-stretcher meal can be made with canned mushroom gravy to shorten preparation time. Slices of tender mushrooms in a rich savory sauce make canned mushroom gravy a perfect mate for all cuts of meat.

A dash of creamy horseradish added to the canned mushroom gravy gives Criss Cross Sandwiches a special lift. And for the unexpected face-lifting to a familiar favorite, try toasting them in the waffle grill.

Lettuce wedges with Thousand Island dressing, a pitcher of ice cold milk, and warm apple crisp for dessert rounds out a meal worth waiting for. P.S. Who had to wait?

Criss Cross Sandwiches

- 8 slices white bread
- Prepared mustard
- 4 slices cooked beef
- 1/4 cup melted butter
- 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) mushroom gravy
- 1/2 teaspoon prepared horseradish

Spread 4 slices of bread with mustard; top each with beef and bread. Brush outside surfaces of sandwiches with butter. Toast in waffle iron at medium heat until lightly browned. In saucepan, combine gravy and horseradish. Heat, stirring now and then. Pour over sandwiches. Makes 4 sandwiches.

How to Handle Emotions as a Maturing Young Adult

Emotions can be good, powerful and destructive. Learning how to direct and control them is a continuing process.

With free, self-motivated human beings there will always be contests between doing what we feel like doing and what our reason judges as best.

Emotional control helps us enjoy our rights with pleasure, and prevents us from distorting our freedom. The misuse of freedom causes misery in ourselves and others.

Since, in many cases, emotions are the result of conscious thoughts, it is good common sense to direct and control our thinking.

You might try approaching your mind as a kind of marvelous computer with a TV or motion picture screen. Through your will power you can put any idea or picture there you choose when you have strong control.

For example, suppose you are attempting to study but find your imagination is working overtime with distractions. By winning the battle of control, you strengthen your will and make yourself stronger for bigger achievements ahead. If the screen won't follow your orders, don't become hysterical and give up. Pick yourself up and keep trying. Persistence is one of the great factors in all success. And remember, you are responsible only for what you deliberately will to be in your mind.

Setting goals for yourself is helpful. Imagine yourself as getting your homework done in first class form. Making a daily sacrifice by accomplishing something you are not required to do, or denying yourself some right, can strengthen and mature you. Then when a challenge comes at home, school, work or socially, you have greater motivational and brake power to control and direct yourself.

By treating your wonderful mind something like a computer with will power for its energy, you will gain new maturity. Seek to feed your intellect truth. Program the good, the strong, and the beautiful into it. As the year progresses you will find new adult control in yourself. Your life will be happier and more meaningful because of your sincere efforts.

Viet Nam Is Trying to Halt Unrest

By ROY ESSOYAN

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Struggling to end popular unrest, Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh assembled South Viet Nam's ruling military junta today to designate a new head of the nation.

He was expected to get the job.

Although Khanh bowed to Buddhist and student mobs by giving up the presidency and scrapping the new constitution Tuesday, he clung to power as head of the junta.

As the junta haggled, fears rose that the Communist Viet Cong may take advantage of the crisis by attacking the capital itself. Intelligence reports indicate that the Communists may have more than 20,000 troops around Saigon.

Diplomats described 37-year-old Khanh as confident he could weather the storm.

The 60 generals and colonels of South Viet Nam's U.S.-backed armed forces met under heavy guard at general staff headquarters near Saigon Airport.

Among them was Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh, the popular Buddhist who directed the overthrow of President Ngo Dinh Diem last November. Minh was ousted as figurehead chief of state in Khanh's Aug. 16 shakeup, which precipitated the current crisis.

Minh did not attend the junta session 10 days ago when Khanh moved up from premier to president and received dictatorial powers under the new constitution.

Also present today were four generals — including three suspected of favoring neutralization of South Viet Nam — who were placed under house arrest after Khanh seized power last Jan. 30.

Although student leaders in Saigon promised to accept the decision of the military revolutionary council, turmoil continued in at least two cities.

Reports from Da Nang, a coastal city 300 miles north of the capitol, told of heavy firing around the government communications center. The center was evacuated.

Troops reportedly fired on demonstrators for the first time in three days of anti-government, anti-Catholic and anti-American rioting in Da Nang, the reports said. At least 11 persons have been killed.

The riots began Monday when 1,000 Buddhists stoned a U.S. enlisted men's barracks 100 yards from the Catholic village. The Americans fired shots into the air to ward off the rioters.

Cyprus Is Cauldron of Hate, Fear

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Years of battle and bushwhacking between Turk and Greek have turned this ruggedly beautiful island into a threatening cauldron of hate and fear.

The 400,000 Greeks and 100,000 Turks on Cyprus think of little else. They are bundles of sensitive, self-centered nerves.

Facing isolation, military defeat and possible starvation, the Turkish Cypriot thinks only of survival. Stoically, he hopes the Turkish government in Ankara will save him. He is willing to listen to Ankara's advice.

The Greek Cypriot is more complicated.

He dreams of a union with Greece which will somehow weave together a tapestry of conflicting desires. He wants union with "the motherland" but no part of the North Atlantic Alliance, which Greece values. He wants union, but no lessening of the heady role now played by his tiny island.

There is a genuine fear among responsible diplomats that the volatile Greek Cypriots — in the absence of a settlement — may make of their island a Mediterranean Cuba.

No Greek Cypriot voice is raised publicly to point out the contradiction in President Makarios, a bearded Greek Orthodox archbishop, asking for military aid from the jolly atheist Nikita Khrushchev.

It isn't thought the least odd, either, when the Greek high commissioner in London says a third world war would be preferable to making concessions to Turkey.

The island has taken on a seemingly permanent embattled character since practical civil war broke out in December.

Its present difficulties date from a warm August day in London four years ago. With restrained enthusiasm, Britain, Turkey and Greece reached an agreement granting the former British colony independence — of a sort. Turkey and Greece would maintain troops on the island, the Turkish minority would have a veto over certain legislation and a constitution wrapped it all up neatly.

Gen. George Grivas, whose Greek Cypriot guerrillas had harassed the British for years, went home in bitterness and disgust, charging Makarios with treason for accepting less than full union with Greece — enosis is the Greek word for it.

Grudgingly accepting the restraint placed on him, Makarios almost immediately a gain raised the banner of enosis and unswervingly kept it high. Vice President Fazil Kuchuk, a Turk who was once the archbishop's personal friend, now rails at him bitterly and says Makarios never intended to make independence work.

The inevitable blowup came when Makarios' determination to change the constitution, thus permitting a "self determination" vote for union with Greece, precipitated the present civil war.

Main Lines in Campaign Laid Down

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The Democrats have laid down, in a speech and a platform, the main lines they will pursue in the 1964 campaign.

But the platform showed the controlling hand of President Johnson, even though he was still in Washington, as much by what it left unsaid as by what it pinpointed.

It's a compromise document plainly intended to prevent party-shattering splits. Particularly it tries to avoid alienating Negroes or Southerners, city-dwellers or farmers.

Yet, the very conscious, and apparently successful search for harmony here is going to make the Democrats' get-together even duller than last month's Republican convention, where the forces of Sen. Barry Goldwater completely dominated the show.

Here are those main lines voters can expect the Democrats to follow:

1. Americans never had it so good, and were never militarily so strong, as under the Kennedy-Johnson administrations. The Democrats claim the longest and strongest peacetime prosperity in our history.

2. Extremism will be a persistent Democratic target. The platform condemned it, specifically naming the Communist party, the Ku Klux Klan and the John Birch Society. Pastore said the Republicans have been taken over by reactionaries and extremists.

The Republican platform

ageous, vigorous, given to quick action and judgment, and inclined to react emotionally rather than intellectually.

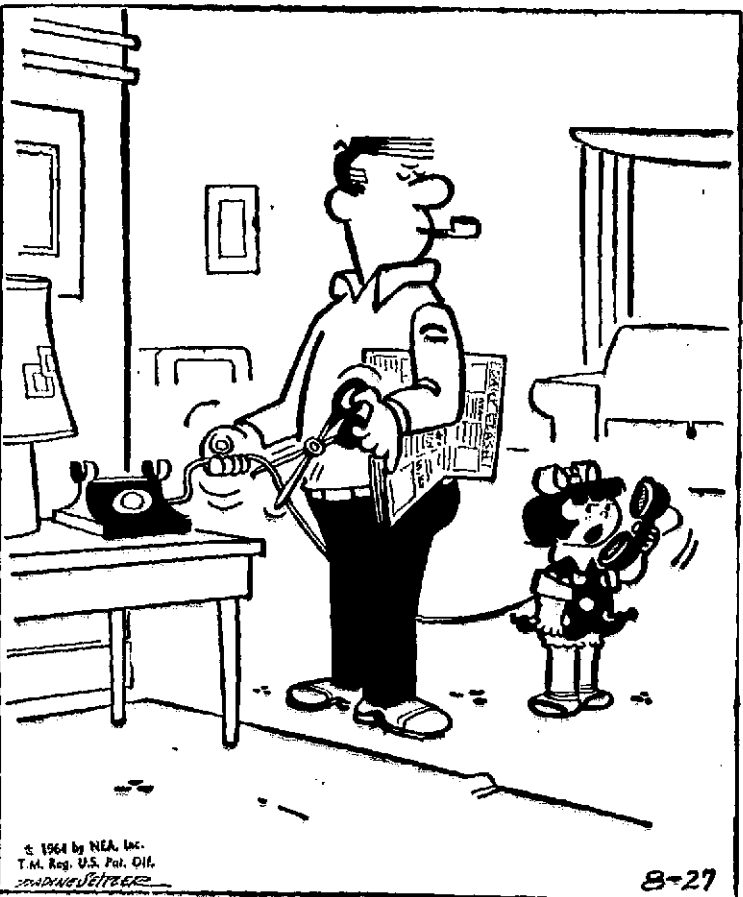

Misty pink signifies softness, daintiness and youthful exuberance, plus a yearning for the luxurious life. It is also a sign of consideration for others and refinement, reflecting a fragile nature.

Blue color preferences denote a basic restraint and dignity in one's personality, along with great strength of character and carefully thought-out action.

Fresh, natural personalities tend toward green, traditionally the color of nature. Green also indicates a tolerant, far-reaching interest in the world about, a respect for money and much pleasure in friends, travel and luxuries. Green-lovers also like to play bridge, shop and read best sellers.

SWEETIE PIE

By Nadine Seltzer

"I have to hang up now! Pop likes it real quiet when he reads his paper!"

avoided repudiating extremism and, while Goldwater later said he did not want the support of the Ku Klux Klan, he did not do the same about the Birchites.

3. The platform promised new programs — such as expanded aid to education and broader health facilities, to name a couple — which would mean even broader participation of the federal government in American life.

The Republican platform promised some new programs, too, but because of its heavy emphasis on less government help and participation it is basically different from the Democratic document.

It was on some very sore subjects that the Democratic platform was most cautious. For instance, civil rights.

It promised "fair, effective enforcement" of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. This is the least it could do without alienating Negroes and Northern liberals. Because it was a minimum, it would not infuriate the South.

The best evidence that this was the language of political compromise is that Northern and Southern members of the Platform Committee acclaimed their work as a "unity" platform and a winner in November.

It said — but didn't attempt to promise, even if the Democrats are in control — that Congress should change its rules or end filibusters after reasonable debate. The filibuster is the Southerners' main weapon against civil rights bills.

And, for the first time since World War II, the platform omitted any demand for new civil rights legislation.

Even though Goldwater voted against the 1964 civil rights bill, the Republican platform on this subject seemed a little stronger than the Democrats.

While it promised "full implementation and faithful execution" of the civil rights act of 1964, it went on to promise "such additional . . . legislative actions as may be required."

But the Democrats' platform entirely ducked — and here Johnson's hand was plainly at work — any mention of the problem of reapportioning state legislative districts on the basis of population.

The Supreme Court had ordered this to give all voters a more equal voice in their legislatures. It could wreck some present state political machines. There is a fight now in Congress to postpone or entirely block the court's decree.

The Democratic platform not only didn't back up the court, it never mentioned reapportionment. A Platform Committee source said Johnson had sent word he wanted no reference to the subject because in his view any position the platform took would alienate city voters or farm voters.

The Coconut Trees Lose to Concrete

By HARRY MOSKOS

HONOLULU (AP) — Coconut trees have given way to concrete but the ocean remains blue and skies sunny as Hawaii celebrates its fifth year as a state.

The youngest state in the Union maintains its leisurely atmosphere, but now as a modern American metropolis in the subtropical mid Pacific.

Hawaii's business and government leaders are excited by the rapid growth of the past five years and speak optimistically about the promise of the future. But others grumble in despair at the high cost of such progress. Some complain that the 50th state is caving in ways that would destroy it.

Hawaii, said author Philip Wylie, my soon become a "jammed up shambles of hives for human beings, interrupted by petrochemical complexes, bowling alley monstrosities, city pads."

But officials say such critics may be seeing only the romantic side — the fabled Polynesia that cannot exist in this day and age.

They cite a Hawaii Visitors Bureau prediction that 500,000 tourists will flock to the 50th state this year, spending $221 million. And there must be hotels to house them.

By contrast, five years ago there were less than half as many visitors — 243,000 — and tourist income was $109 million.

Since statehood day — Aug. 21, 1959 — the state has grown by more than 100,000 persons.

Honolulu Mayor Neal S. Blaisdel cited improvement in communications with Washington, D.C., through direct representation in Congress as a big step forward.

In addition to political representation pineapples, sugar, Waikiki Beach vital military roles, the state maintains comparative racial harmony.

With statehood came increasing thousands of tourists. Coconut trees gave way to concrete high-rise structures which now dot the shadow of famed Diamond Head.

One of Hawaii's original boosters and investors is industrialist Henry J. Kaiser who continues to see nothing but good in the 5th state's future, especially in tourism.

Kaiser forecasts an increase in tourist travel to one million visitors a year around 1970 and predicted the state's population will reach a million at that time. It now stands at approximately 730,500.

The bulk of these people live on Oahu Island where Honolulu is located. Neighboring island communities are just beginning to develop.

The state's tourist facilities have overflowed Waikiki and moved to rural Oahu and to the outer islands. There were 5,494 hotel rooms in 1958. The number

Television and Radio

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Lucille Ball, who needs another job like a centipede needs another leg, is on the threshold of a new career — radio. Starting on Labor Day, Lucy will preside over a 10-minute week-day program called "Let's Talk with Lucy" on CBS.

Already the star of a popular CBS television series and president of the enormous, multimillion-dollar Desilu productions — which owns the biggest studio complex in Hollywood — Lucy is working on the new project with the enthusiasm of a cub reporter on a first big assignment.

She carries a tape recorder wherever she goes, just in case she runs into someone or something interesting. The other day she grabbed an interview with busy Bob Hope as she trotted beside him on a walk between his dressing room and a set.

She has already taped interviews, some two- and three-part sessions with famous friends and colleagues including Bing Crosby, Jack Benny, Danny Kaye, Dean Martin and his wife, and others.

The public which has long known and loved Lucy Ricardo and Lucy Carmichael, will be meeting a third — the real one, Lucille Ball Morton.

"I've always liked radio," the red-haired comedienne said. "But I sort of forgotten what a really important thing it is to so many people. Last spring when I was in Virginia a lot of people asked me why I never was on radio. I said that I was on television—but they said it wasn't the same thing."

The subject of a daily radio show was broached after Garry Moore (who had a daily radio show on CBS for years) decided on a broadcasting sabbatical.

Gary Morton, Lucy's husband, will join her often on the program, and is, in addition, producing the series.

The three major television networks which have invested millions of dollars and deployed tons of equipment and transported their top broadcasters, now are busily attempting to drum up suspense and excitement over the forthcoming Democratic National Convention starting Monday in Atlantic City.

Political leaders will be popping up for interviews all over the channels during the weekend and the New Jersey resort city's boardwalk will be getting first degree burns from camera exposure.

Conventions, like beauty contests, have aficionados among television viewers even when there is not a great deal of built-in suspense about the ultimate outcome.

French Decree More Trousers for Women

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Paradoxically, while Frenchmen glory in la difference, French couturiers are diminishing it by decreeing trousers and more trousers for women.

During a fashion year in which near-nudity also is the vogue, sociologists, fashion historians, and designers too, are pondering the significance of this seemingly masculine trend in the Paris collections just introduced.

A year ago, the dean of American couturiers, Norman Norell, created tweed trouser suits "for travel" only. Their success prompted him to add more to his collection this season, even though he admits he personally is not fond of long trousers on women.

So many women bought and wore Norell's pants that other American designers took to following them too, for travel, or anything.

Then in Paris these last few weeks Andre Courreges, Pierre Cardin, Jacques Esterel, Coco Chanel, Balenciaga — almost every couturier but a stubborn young Yves St. Laurent — brought forth tight-legged or bell-bottomed, hip-slung or high-waisted, creased or creaseless, long pants in every fabric from flannel to lace.

In London, fashion historian James Laver told a trade publication:

"It is typical of a matriarchy when the sexes get very close together in clothes that women being the breadwinners can now afford to choose husbands who attract them as men, not as providers. Men, therefore, could begin to dress for physical attraction."

Vacations Given Up to Build Church

By BOB M. GASSAWAY

RAYMONDVILLE, Tex. (AP) — The pay is only $3 a week with room and board, but 10 Texas college students have given up their summer vacations to build a church in this south Texas town.

In addition to building the church, the students conduct revival services in the Raymondville area and lead regular services here of the First Baptist church and Primera Iglesia Bautista — Spanish for First Baptist Church. It is a new structure for the Spanish church that they are building.

The students are members of the Baptist Student Union which has 55,000 members on campuses of 68 Texas colleges.

"I wouldn't work this hard for money," says Jeff Crossland, 21, a senior history major at North Texas State University.

"Actually, there is pay in this job," Crossland says, "but the pay isn't money; it's a richly rewarding experience."

The students — six young men and four girls — are from 19 to 25 years old. They share what once was the First Baptist parsonage. The boys sleep on bunk beds in one room and the girls share double beds in the rear of the house.

The boys handle most of the work on the church — often working 15 hours a day — while the girls feed the crew and keep work clothes clean.

Betty Ann Gunstream, a junior at Baylor University, wasn't content with housework though.

"The first week, I went out and dug ditches with the boys, and I've painted some," she said.

TABLE-TOP THEMES ARE FUN TO PLAN

Summer's blistery days mean "Whoa, there! Take it easy on the entertaining!" When it's your turn to play hostess at lunch to your club or bridge group, it's a good idea to make your splash with a catchy and unusual table setting which you can plan ahead, and let the menu be a cool and casual one.

TO BEGIN WITH, choose a table theme appropriate to the purpose of the group. Get ideas by giving a new look at the unexpected "treasures" found around the house. That ancient and ignored humidifier, filled with junk jewels, could double as pirate's chest when it's lady investors' day; grandma's dainty waste basket, as a cornucopia spilling gaily wrapped prizes, for a festive bridge luncheon; or, to launch a fall fund drive, how about a giant wooden salad bowl overflowing with lettuce of the real and figurative varieties?

In the setting shown here, white woolly lambs frolic in a strawflower meadow near an antique yarn holder — a natural opener for a friendly afternoon with the gang caught up in the current "old fashioned" crewelwork craze. A sparkling color scheme is inspired by the gay orange, brown and pink blossoms on the lustrous dinnerware — melamine, naturally, because it's so easy to handle and washes in a jiffy in the automatic dishwasher. The tawny colors are repeated in the linens, a deep orange cloth used with lush raspberry and pale peony pink napkins. Cool accents are supplied by touches of white in the dinnerware, yarn holder and lambs.

Experiment with snappy napkin folds, as they're an easy way to perk up a table. To do this one, fold a square dinner napkin into a smaller square. Turn up the closed-edge corner to an inch below the opposite open-end one. Now turn up the base of the resulting triangle about an inch and fold under both left and right corner angles, tucking them into each other in back to hold in place. And the job is done!

50 Banks Can Meet Stock New Rule

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The new York Stock Exchange figures there are about 50 of the nation's banks large enough to meet its requirements for stock listing. Only a few have shown interest so far, and only one has applied. For the time being, the stocks of most will continue to be traded over the counter.

Part of the roadblock is hesitancy by the banks themselves and part is a battle over rules governing trading in stocks of nationally chartered banks.

The reason the stock exchange thinks banks, as well as many other large corporations, may now seek listing is the signing into law last week of the Securities Acts Amendments of 1964. These require large firms to publish more complete financial information than most of these unlisted ones now do, and thus would bring them close to meeting rules laid down by the exchange itself.

Large unlisted industrial corporations from now on will have to file the newly required information with the Securities & Exchange Commission, banks with the federal regulatory agencies, and insurance companies with their home state insurance commissioners.

But Comptroller of Currency James J. Saxon, before approving listing of national banks, wants the New York Stock Exchange to make exceptions in some of its trading rules to favor bank stocks.

One demand is for more disclosure of the activities of specialists making a market for bank stocks than is required of specialists in industrial stocks. He also wants bank stock to be traded both on the exchange and over the counter. And he doesn't want trading in bank stocks halted temporarily to match orders, as in the case of industrial stocks in a trading rush, lest the delay alarm nervous depositors.

But Saxon's approval isn't a concern of state chartered banks. And the nation's state-chartered largest, the Chase Manhattan Bank of New York, has applied for listing.

At present four bank holding companies and some savings and loan associations are listed on the exchange, but no commercial bank has been since 1954. In that year, the only one,

School Savings Teaches Thrift

Each year, at least 5,654,220 Americans placed a total over $209,206,140 in savings accounts. Although the figures in themselves are not particularly news worthy, what is of interest is the fact that these depositors are all students of public and parochial schools. They are part of the school savings banking program conducted by over 800 banks throughout the country, in cooperation with educators, aimed at teaching the importance of thrift to boys and girls.

Often these school savings accounts are converted into regular savings when balances reach a certain total — recently, $27,386,233, in school savings were transferred to regular savings accounts in one year.

Most banks do not earn a profit on these savings but consider them an important part of their community relations, for in a few years, the youngsters who have school savings accounts will be adults and customers for regular banking services.

LBJ Likes to Be President of the People

By FRANK CORMIER
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Lyndon B. Johnson, who often refers to himself as "president of all the people," now wants to be candidate of all the people.

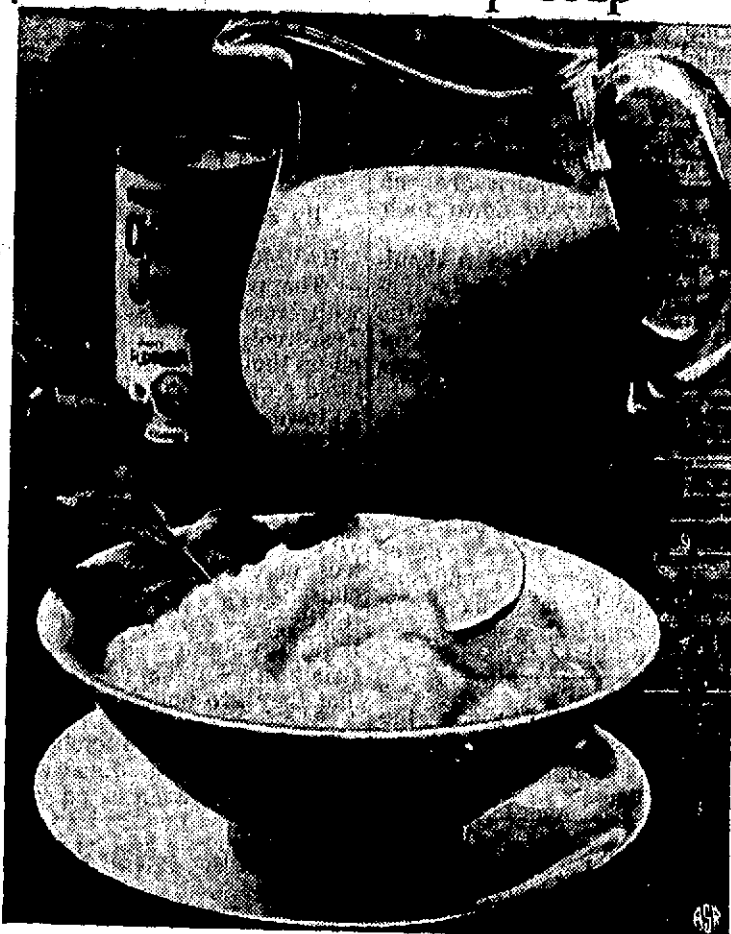

Any attempt to assess the campaign tactics of the just-nominated Democratic standard bearer is apt to founder unless weighed against Johnson's aim to claim the broad middle ground on the political battlefield and appeal to just about everyone.

In his contest with Sen. Barry Goldwater, Johnson will try to Corn Exchange Bank & Trust Co. of New York, went off the exchange to merge with an unlisted bank. The name has since been changed to Chemical Bank New York Trust.

Banks have been shy of listing for several reasons. One is the rule for information publication beyond that required by banking regulations. Another is that over-the-counter trading offers less publicity to the ups and downs of stock prices, and that bank stocks can be sold over the counter by both securities firms that are members of the exchange and those that aren't.

Cool Summer Soup Coup

Ice cold orange soup is the most refreshing summer menu item imaginable. Fresh-frozen Florida orange juice concentrate gives this consommé its irresistible color and flavor.

The handy little 6-ounce can — so easy to store and so convenient to use for breakfast juice, in summer punches, salad dressings and ice cream sauces — is a treasure store of valuable vitamin C required daily by children and adults alike to maintain glowing good health. Summer's outdoor activities, as well as the heat itself, deplete our energy reserves, and the natural vitamin C contained in frozen Florida orange juice concentrate, a wholly pure product, gives a quick refreshing pickup.

The Scandinavian countries of the north and tropical countries, too, are known for their cold soup specialties, and citrus juices flavor some of the best. This recipe for chilled orange consommé is so easy, and it's sure to delight and surprise your family and friends.

Jellied Orange Soup

- 1 can (6 ounces) frozen Florida orange juice concentrate
- 1 envelope unflavored gelatine
- 2 tablespoons lime juice

Reconstitute orange juice concentrate according to label directions. Sprinkle gelatine on $\frac{1}{2}$ cup of the concentrate in saucepan to soften. Place over low heat, stirring constantly, until gelatine is dissolved. Remove from heat; stir in remaining orange juice concentrate and lime juice. Pour into an 8-inch square pan; chill until firm. To serve, spoon into serving dishes or whip with a fork. Serve with lime slices and mint. YIELD: 4 to 6 servings.

picture the Republican presidential nominee as being far removed from the mainstream of American political thought.

AKS Senate Democratic leader and during nine months as president, he has sought to represent a broad consensus of attitudes on key issues. He made it his stated policy nearly three months ago.

Addressing the graduating class at the University of Texas, Johnson said the American people share the same deep desires—for peace, justice and a better life.

"This is the real voice of America," he asserted. "And it is one of the great tasks of political leadership to make our people aware of this voice, aware that they share a fundamental unity of interest and purpose and belief."

This was a prepared-in-advance speech, which added something to the significance of his next words:

"I am going to try and do this. And on the basis of this unity, I intend to try and achieve a broad national consensus which can end obstruction and paralysis, and can liberate the energies of the nation for the work of the future."

However, lest anyone get the idea from this that Johnson plans a nonpartisan campaign, it is well to recall his off-the-cuff remarks at a Democratic fund-raising dinner in Minneapolis, Minn., on June 27.

From the moment he became president last Nov. 22 upon the assassination of John F. Kennedy, Johnson has energetically sought the backing of all segments of the populace.

More than any Democrat in recent decades, Johnson has achieved a signal success in wooing influential business leaders. Henry Ford II is a notable example. This auto magnate never before backed a Democrat for the presidency, but he's backing Johnson.

Any attempt to build a consensus inevitably involves a delicate balancing act — something at which Johnson is an old hand.

But if Johnson now has friends that would have seemed unlikely nine months ago, he also has lost friends.

Although his steadfast support for the civil rights cause has cost him some support he is counting on his personal assessment that the ideal of racial justice is supported by the great majority of voters. And he rarely fails to appeal directly to those who resist the idea.

Racial justice is a key goal of Johnson's Great Society which, he says, would bring "abundance and liberty for all."

The Great Society also represents the better life—"a place where every family has a roof over its head, a rug on the floor, a picture on the wall and a little music in the house."

And he is deeply committed to his antipoverty program which Goldwater has labeled a vote-getting scheme.

There are other Great Society proposals, too, that surely will be debated during the campaign: health insurance for the aged, aid to education, expanded minimum wage coverage; in fact a broad gamut of social measures. And the Republicans have made it clear that they will be talking about foreign policy.

Greater stress on economy in government is one of the personal touches that Johnson has added to the program he inherited from Kennedy. The poverty program also was fashioned under his direction.

"DEAR ABBY"

EAD END STREET!

By Abigail Van Buren

Dear Abby: Like the taxidermist whose problem was a fiancée who couldn't stand the sight of stuffed animals, I have a problem. I am a mortician, and my fiancée can't stand my work, although I never discuss it after hours.

After having gone to mortician college and investing much time and money in my profession, I've become somewhat successful, and don't want to give it up. My fiancée refuses to marry me unless I change my profession. I love her, but if I am going to support her, unlike the taxidermist, I can't store my zoo in the attic.

IN DEAD EARNEST
Dear In: If your fiancée doesn't dig your profession, it's time to bury your relationship.

Dear Abby: Saturday night I was asked to baby-sit for some neighbors who had just moved into our neighborhood. They agreed to pay me 50 cents an hour and asked me to be at their house at 7:30 p.m. sharp. I got there at about 7:25. They didn't leave the house until 8:30. They came home at 12:30 that evening and paid me two dollars. I didn't say anything. My mother said that since I was asked to be at their home at 7:30 I should have charged them for the time I sat and waited for them to leave. Do you agree with her? Should I mention to them that they owe me 50 cents if they ask me to sit for them again? Or should I refuse to sit for them? They were very nice otherwise. I am a 17-year-old girl.

CHEATED
Dear Cheated: Since you accepted the two dollars and said nothing, your silence implied that you were satisfied. Say nothing, but should they ask you to sit for them again, tell them you charge from the time you are asked to be at their home.

Dear Abby: I wish you'd settle something for my husband and me. About two years ago we went to a housewarming party for two of our closest friends. We gave them an expensive present. We visit them in their home often and we have never seen our gift in any room. I want to ask about it but my husband thinks it would be rude. What would you do?

LIBBY
Dear Libby: I'd listen to my husband.

Dear Abby: When my husband and I were first married we were so broke our wedding party consisted of us, our witnesses and the preacher. After the ceremony we took them out to dinner. They ordered the most expensive steaks on the

Negro Group Is Against Barry

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The newly formed National Negro Republican Assembly has denied its support to both Sen. Barry Goldwater, the GOP presidential nominee, and President Johnson, on the Democratic side.

Negro Republican leaders menu, so we had to shorten our honeymoon by one day.

A year later, on our anniversary we had a beautiful wedding with all the trimmings. I had a white gown and veil. White stands for purity, not virginity, and a married woman can be as pure as any virgin. The only difference between this and a first wedding was in our reading of the invitations, which read, "To the renewal of their vows." Instead of "To the marriage of." Our minister said couples can stage a wedding and renew their vows as many times as they wish. In fact, he recommends it. Sincerely, "A RENEWER" formed the assembly Sunday.

They termed it a vibrant organization with a political action policy designed to give the Negro a stronger voice in what the Republican party does.

George G. Fleming, of East Orange, N.J., was named president.

According to Fleming, 50 Negro leaders attended the Philadelphia convention. Most of them were delegates or alternates to the San Francisco convention.

"I think a vast majority of Negroes in this country subscribe to our views," said Fleming.

The assembly's next meeting was scheduled for Washington on Sept. 19.

Isometric Exercises Builds Body

about a new kind of exercise called isometrics. Doctors, physiologists and athletic directors have known about isometrics for a long time but it is just coming into its own among the public who want to keep trim and strong.

Isometric exercise is done when the muscles are in static contraction against an immovable resistance. The immovable resistance can be a wall, a door-jamb, ceiling, built-in piece of

Tell Your Neighbor

A new idea in cakes and so delicious it doesn't need frosting! That's what you will say about this fabulous new cake made with only 4 ingredients: a cake mix, an instant pudding, eggs, and water. It's so easy to make . . . and there are so many different combinations — as many as there are flavors of instant pudding and cake mix flavors. Serve this version with tall glasses of iced coffee, the regular or instant decaffeinated. You'll find they are great together.

"Tell Your Neighbor" Banana Fudge Cake

1 package Swans Down fudge coconut cake mix*
1 package (3 1/2 oz.) banana cream instant pudding
1 cup plus 2 tablespoons water*
4 eggs, unbeaten
Confectioners' sugar

*Use 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons water when using fudge coconut cake mix and chocolate chip cake mix. For the other cake mixes, use only 1 cup water.

Combine ingredients in large mixing bowl. Blend at low speed of mixer just to moisten. Then beat 8 minutes at medium speed or with wooden spoon.

Line 10-inch tube pan on bottom with brown paper; do not grease pan. Pour batter into pan. Bake at 350° for 50 to 60 minutes, or until cake tester comes out clean. Cool right side up in pan 15 minutes; then remove from pan. Cool thoroughly on rack. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar, sprinkling through a lace paper doily if you like a design.

furniture or anything usually requiring the strength of a Samson to move. Be sure to check with the family physician before trying any new physical exercises, even these, and with his consent, go ahead. You may find isometric exercises very beneficial.

Isometric exercise differs from isotonic exercise in that isotonic exercise stimulates only 40 to 50 per cent of the muscle fiber in a given muscle. Isometric exercise stimulates 100 per cent of the muscle fiber in a muscle.

Research has proved that you can increase your strength 5 per cent with week with five minutes of isometrics if you are in normal good health. However, it is recommended that you do not abandon isotonic work completely as this form of exercise has its own advantages, too.

Isometric exercise will help keep you trim and strong — all your life if you learn to do it intelligently. There are two parts to each exercise: the mental and the physical. One of the most beneficial of the routines is the abdominal exercise. It helps to keep all the visceral (vital) organs in proper alignment. You may do it in a sitting position to a slow count of ten. It should be done three or four times a day. Try and pick out a few key sounds or visual signals to act as reminders such as class bell, a telephone ring or traffic light.

With 100 per cent concentration and effort attempt to press abdominal muscles through the back of your chair. Of course you won't really, but it's the effort to do so that exercises and strengthens the abdominal muscles so effectively.

A strong corset of abdominal muscles helps you not only look more vital, but actually assists you in being more vital by improving circulation and cell nou-

Integration Stepped Up

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Stepped up integration at Fort Smith and Little Rock and decisions to desegregate at eight places will result in the attendance of about 850 Negroes in predominantly white Arkansas schools this fall.

This compares to 390 attending desegregated schools last term.

Fort Smith will have 260 Negroes in desegregated schools this fall, compared to 37 last term. Negro students will attend the eighth grade in formerly all-white schools for the first time.

At Little Rock all 12 grades will be desegregated compared to nine in 1963, with a resulting increase from 121 to 229 Negroes in mixed classes.

Texarkana, North Little Rock, Russellville, Dardanelle, Atkins, Danville, Havana and Ola experience desegregation for the first time.

Twenty-one of the state's 228 districts with students of both races will have mixed classes on some or all grades, compared to 13 last term.

In performing the abdominal exercise, count to ten slowly. This is well done by saying "a thousand and one, a thousand and two" and so on to "a thousand and ten." By adding the word "thousand" you prolong the count so that the timing comes out right. Remember to concentrate on pushing the abdominal muscles through the back of the chair.

For more information on isometric exercises and what they can do to make you more vital and attractive, send 10 cents for a copy of "Shape Up" to the United States Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., 20402. A copy will be sent to you promptly.
